Certified Performance Technologist (CPT) - Fast Facts

What is it?

The CPT is an internationally recognised accreditation for performance professionals offered by the International Society for Performance Improvement (ISPI). It recognises professionals who have demonstrated proficiency in the 10 Standards of Performance Improvement as required by ISPI. A programme is now available exclusively through Improvid Performance Consulting who has been associated with ISPI for more than 15 years.

How do you sign up for CPT certification?

To obtain your CPT credential or to enrol for a performance consulting development programme contact us.

What do you get?

CPT accreditation equips performance consultants with the competence to apply a rigorous systematic methodology that effectively addresses performance improvement needs and opportunities. Upgrade to higher levels of professionalism and be recognised as a competent, trusted Performance Improvement specialist.

Why become a CPT?

- The CPT is valued by international and local employers and has attained global recognition in more than 30 countries.
- CPT practitioners are recognised as professionals who produce value and sustainable results under real workplace conditions.
- CPT practitioners are recognised as professionals who partner with others and add value to the process and outcomes.
- CPT accreditation reflects the highest standards of peer review.
- CPT practitioners are bound by the ISPI Code of Ethics.

How do you become a CPT?

Apply for the CPT credential as a standalone, or enrol for a development programme coached individually or in a small group context.

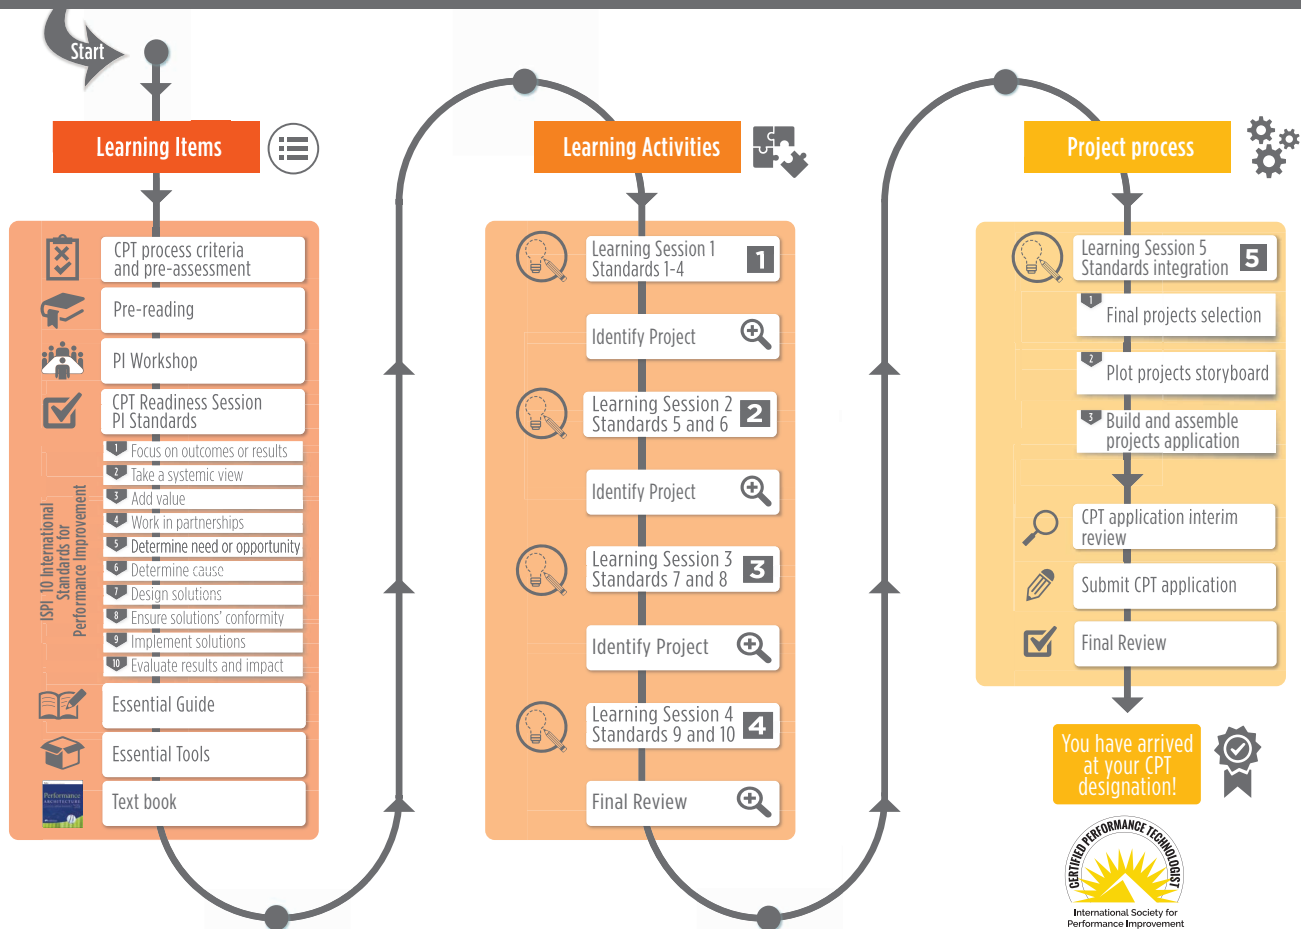

What is different about the CPT?

- The CPT is the only expert and competence-based credential available in the Performance Consulting profession locally and internationally.
- The CPT programme is the first professional certification with a code of ethics together with standards that are based on demonstrated repeatable performance.
- CPT standards are based on demonstrated repeatable performance results in Performance Improvement competence.

What is required?

- A minimum of three years experience in performance related areas.
- A commitment to the ISPI Code of Ethics.
- The submission of no less than three and no more than seven projects that demonstrate the candidate's ability to meet the ISPI standards.
- Attestation by employers or clients to verify the accuracy of the candidate's project submissions.
- Successful CPT candidates should re-certify every three years in order to retain their credentials. To achieve this they must comply with minimum professional development requirements over a three-year period.
